KORI COOKIE POLICY

What is it?

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site.

This website makes use of cookies to monitor visitor sessions. No personal information is stored in the cookie that is issued by the site. The value stored in the cookie is an anonymous identifier, which is not linked to any other personal information you may give us during your visit. If you do not wish to receive these cookies you can disable them in your browser, though doing so may affect the functionality of our website.

Your data is in good hands

Kori.org.uk uses trusted data analytics service providers like Google Analytics to help us analyze the aggregate website visitor statistics collected from our site cookies.

What cookies are used on this site?

So that we can identify which parts of a site are popular we use Google Analytics to track which pages you visit. These cookies do not collect information which could identify you and are only used to help us improve how our site works and implement improvements. Session: When a user enters a website, their computers will be issued with a ‘cookie’. Cookies are text files which identify a user’s computer to the site’s web server.

The website creates a ‘session’ cookie so that the user’s preferences can be used whilst navigating the site. ‘Session’ cookies are deleted once the user leaves the website and closes their browser. Most web browsers allow some control of cookies through the browser settings. To find out more about cookies, including how to see what cookies have been set and how to manage and delete them, visit www.allaboutcookies.org.